

SUFFRAGISTS START STATE-WIDE BATTLE FOR WOMAN'S LIFE

Would Save Connecticut the Disgrace of Hanging Slayer of Husband.

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—Three hours after she had left New Haven yesterday Mrs. Bessie Wakefield, the twenty-four-year-old murderer of her husband, William, was stripped of her pretty gray suit, her neat little black hat and tan gloves, and sat alone and silent in a cell in the women's quarter of the State prison at Wetherfield.

A little metal sign above the cell door bears her name, and the outlook from the prison window near her includes in its range the ominous looking death house where she will be hanged, a few minutes after midnight, next March 4, unless the Supreme Court of the State or the Board of Pardons intervenes. Already the battle is strong that Mrs. Wakefield will never be hanged.

Mrs. Wakefield was not handcuffed as she rode in a trolley from the station in this city to the prison in Wetherfield, where Warden Ward A. Garner was awaiting her. The prison physician, Dr. Edward G. Fox, turned her over to Mrs. Anna Littlefield, the matron, who garbed her in the female uniform, a check gingham wrapper.

No condemned person is permitted to do any work in prison, and Mrs. Wakefield, not at all hysterical or weakening, but very, very serious, may do nothing but sit in her cell hour by hour, undergoing the terrible suspense of awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court or the verdict of the Board of Pardons, which meets Dec. 8.

Every prominent woman suffragist in the State except Mrs. Carlos Stoddard, of New Haven, has come out strongly in favor of State-wide petitions to the Board of Pardons to "save Connecticut from disgrace" by commuting the death penalty to life imprisonment. James Plew, Mrs. Wakefield's accomplice, who is under sentence to be hanged immediately after her, will arrive at the prison in a few days, but he will probably never see her again. She will be permitted to see only her attorney and occasionally her children.

Blown From Cannon Mouth.
ALLAHABAD, British India, Nov. 7.—Nine ringleaders of a plot to kill the Amir of Afghanistan, Habibullah Khan, have been blown from the mouths of cannon.

DESPITE MOTHER'S PLEA SHE WEDS A CONSUL'S SON

Miss Bessie Cooke of Flatbush Is Now Daughter-in-Law of an Ecuadorian.

Despite her mother's entreaties not to marry Adquies Lopez, son of the Ecuadorian Consul in New York, Miss Bessie Cooke of No. 40 Buckingham road, Flatbush, married him yesterday at Portchester, N. Y.

The couple dodged the bride elect's mother at the Grand Central Station on their way to a train.

"I overheard Bessie plotting over the telephone to elope," said Mrs. Cooke last night. "I knew to whom she was talking, as she had been keeping company with young Lopez about five years. So when my daughter left the house I went with her. Throughout the journey I used all the persuasion I could to induce her to give up her plan."

From the Grand Central Mrs. Cooke returned home, acknowledging herself defeated.

"Of course I shall forgive her," said she after she had learned of the marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Leo R. Thomas of the North Baptist Church, Portchester.

Sues Clubman for Club Debt.

Frederick A. Richmond, an associate of the Republican Club, began a suit in the Supreme Court yesterday to recover from Lewis E. Carr Jr. $102, with interest. He says $100 of the amount covers membership dues and the extra $20 "goods sold and delivered."
